How to Read Racing Flow™ Americanized Past Performances for Hong Kong

Please review. If you have any questions, email jake@racingflow.com.

Top row for each runner:

- > race number
- > race class
- > today's post position
- > horse name
- > weight carried
- > runner's rating as assigned by the HKJC
- > today's trainer
- > today's jockey

Subsequent rows represent (up to 10) prior HK races in reverse chronological order:

- > date
- > track (Sha Tin or Happy Valley)
- > race number
- > surface (turf or dirt, a.k.a. all weather)
- > track condition
- > race class
- > runner's rating as assigned by the HKJC
- > race distance (in meters)
- > weight carried
- > up to four fractional times
- > final time
- > runners position at 1st call
- > lengths behind leader at 1st call
- > runners position at 2nd call
- > lengths behind leader at 2nd call
- > runners position at 3rd call
- > lengths behind leader at 3rd call
- > finish position
- > lengths behind race winner
- > final win odds
- > winning runner

The next rows provide figures exclusive to Racing Flow™ subscribers:

- > BIAS - indicates whether a racing surface favored speed versus stretch runners on a particular day:
 - BIAS figures near zero indicates no bias
 - Large negative BIAS figures (e.g. -200) indicates a very strong speed bias
 - Large positive BIAS figures (e.g. +200) indicates a very strong closer bias
- > FLOW - indicates whether the race shape favored speed versus stretch runners:
 - FLOW figures near zero indicates a fair race shape scenario
 - Large negative FLOW figures (e.g. -200) point to scenarios favoring speed
 - Large positive FLOW figures (e.g. +200) point to scenarios favoring closers

- > CFR - combines the independent effects of track bias and race shape into a single figure indicating whether the race favored runners on or near the lead versus those trying a late rally. The value ranges from 1 (the race ranks in the top 1% of all races in terms of favoring early leader) to 100 (the race ranks in the top 1% in terms of favoring stretch runners).

If a frontrunner fails to hold on when the CFR is high (e.g., 98), we upgrade his effort. He was on the wrong side of FLOW and/or BIAS. If a confirmed stretch runner fails to show much late kick when the CFR is low (e.g., 2), we upgrade his effort as well, since he was also on the wrong side.

- > winner BL12

The winner BL12 simply indicates the number of lengths the winner raced from the lead at the first two calls, combined.

- A wire to wire winner will always receive a figure of 0
- A winner 5 lengths back at the 1st call and 3 lengths back at the 2nd get an 8
